Documentation

Let ACL take the paper out of the bill-of-lading release process – simply, efficiently and at no cost to you!

Background

Atlantic Container Line takes the paper out of the bill-of-lading release process. ACL can now return export bills-of-lading faster, more efficiently and at no cost to you. ACL makes it simple for you. Direct from ACL's state-of-the-art operating system, Atlas, the bill-of-lading moves from ACL directly to you via email. This not only eliminates paper but makes the whole process effortless and reliable.

Product

This is available for all original bills complete with an electronic digitized signature as well as non-negotiable data freight receipts. We can transmit to as many email addresses that you require. You can even specify if you want the freight charges masked or visible.

Advantages

Accurate and timely documentation is very important to you and your cargo. When you receive your export bill via email, you can immediately review it, respond with questions, save to an electronic file, forward or if you so choose, print directly in your office. No special forms are required. The bill prints just as you view it on your computer's screen, clean and crisp, unlike photocopies. This transmission provides you with a permanent paperless record of the transaction.

Faster, as you automatically receive the transmission, no logging-on or queries.

No checking to see if it is ready. You get a completed bill in accordance with our stringent bill completion standards.

Cheaper for you to forward, no costly courier needed.

Easier for you to receive bills-of-lading. You receive them automatically.

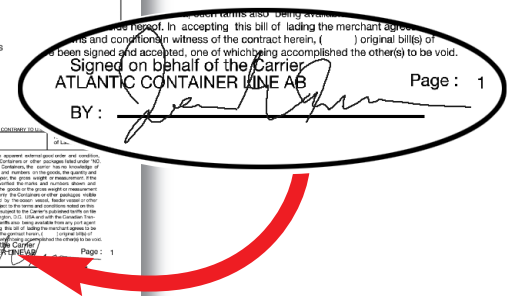

A clear transmission for reading.

Digital Signature

Each ACL office in North America and Europe has a "signed on behalf the carrier" electronic signatory. This electronic transmission speeds up the exchange between ACL and you, eliminating the need for exchanging the original bill-of-lading between parties. Digital signatures are recognized as an acceptable means of authorizing documents in many countries.

Let ACL expedite your paperwork in the fastest and most accurate way when you need to complete the documentation process.
